As a vital part of Carter Ledyard's cross-border skillset, our LatAm group is focused on supporting our foreign and domestic individuals, corporate and family group clients with inbound US transactional and disputes matters. In addition, our tight business relationships with a network of trusted lawyers and firms throughout Mexico, Central America and the Caribbean and throughout Latin America enables our client teams to deliver single-point-of-contact legal services. We provide the insight and knowledge to our cross-border clients that they need to complete successful projects and transactions that are both compliant with US law and optimized to their business success. What makes Carter Ledyard different is our approach to keeping and maintaining trusted relationships with clients: it is our personal touch and close attention to their needs which has enabled our Firm to prosper independently for over 170 years. Our tight ratio of partners and associates ensures seasoned lawyers are personally handling client matters.

Why Carter Ledyard?

From our offices in the heart of New York's financial district our team enjoys a long and distinguished track record of assisting foreign and domestic mid-sized companies on a range of corporate issues—a one-stop legal services provider for our clients. We serve international clients with U.S. matters and our U.S. clients with their global matters. We help organizations navigate through cross-border mergers, acquisitions, and joint ventures and handle issues involving capital markets, debt, regulatory requirements, and in family groups and high net worth organizations handle complex assets. Additionally, we assist our clients in overcoming the difficulties – including the cross-cultural challenges that often arise – of entering and conducting business in the U.S. market.

With an exceptionally strong cross border practice, Carter Ledyard understands the business cultures and practices of the countries in which clients operate, and many speak the languages of those they counsel, facilitating clear communication and helping to ensure smooth transactions and commercial operations. We have Spanish- and Portuguese-speaking lawyers to help support our communications with clients in Latin America.

LatAm Linked

Our newsletter and video series devoted to legal updates that affect clients throughout Latin America with operations or investments in the United States. We aim to provide practical information that you can use as you look to expand, seek financing, hire or terminate employees, deal with tax matters, apply for licensing, and engage in business transactions.
